Chief Forecasters Assessment
There remains some doubt as to the extent and amounts of rainfall during Thursday, but with the possibility that amounts may exceed 40 mm locally during the daytime period. Given the amounts of rainfall that fell earlier in the week, it seems likely that any heavier downpours may lead to some problems with surface water flooding, exacerbated locally by leaves and other small debris blocking drainage channels.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 06:00 on Thu, 27th Oct 2011 until 18:00 on Thu, 27th Oct 2011

Periods of heavy rain are expected to develop through Thursday morning and lasting well into the afternoon. The public should be aware that surface water flooding may occur in places.
